

VEGA DAILY

Unlock Your Best Quotation
Ask VEGA Now!

June 29 2026

VITAMIN

01

The vitamin market remained generally stable last week, although downstream demand stayed weak. Vitamin D3 producers suspended quotations and order bookings, while several Vitamin E manufacturers entered scheduled maintenance. Supported by raw material costs, the choline market stabilized after previous declines, and prices of most other vitamins remained largely unchanged.

AMINO ACID

02

The specialty amino acid market remained under pressure last week. Valine traded at USD 1.45–1.48/KG amid ample supply, while tryptophan prices held at USD 3.83–4.10/KG on weak demand. Producer quotations for isoleucine declined to USD 2.90–3.04/KG, and arginine prices eased to around USD 2.58–2.90/KG. Downstream purchasing continued to be driven primarily by immediate demand.

API

03

The veterinary API market remained generally stable last week, with purchasing focused on immediate demand. Doxycycline HCl producers continued to support prices through controlled supply, while Amoxicillin quotations tightened further and some producers reported longer delivery lead times. Colistin Sulfate remained firm, and most other veterinary APIs traded steadily.

FOOD ADDITIVE

04

The food additive market remained stable last week. Sucralose traded at USD 12.42–12.81/KG, with further price increases still possible. Sodium Saccharin (Anhydrous) remained stable at USD 6.74–6.87/KG, while Creatine Monohydrate held at USD 3.17–3.30/KG, with delivery schedules extending into July for some orders.

Reported by Candice, Shea and Sharon

ONE STOP SOLUTION SUPPLIER

VEGA

vegamax

Prumix
Ideas for better health

